

When DISASTER Strikes...

DISASTER PREPARATION & RESPONSE AT HUBBELL POWER SYSTEMS:

1. Emergency storm product stocks maintained at the 370,000 sq. ft. Hubbell distribution center strategically located in the center of the United States for rapid response.
2. Coordinated storm product shipments from multiple manufacturing facilities for direct drop shipments as required by distributors and to customers.
3. As storm warnings are posted by the weather service, the Hubbell team monitors potential storms by satellite and projects locale or landfall.
4. Trucking companies are alerted 48 hours prior to projected damage areas and in-transit products are expedited to delivery points before the storm event.
5. Customer Service and Managers are placed "on call." Ready to handle the incoming communications from the field.
6. Critical product production levels are increased.
7. Overtime of workers implemented as required.
8. Product volumes are coordinated with Hubbell distributors and territory managers. Nothing is left to happenstance.
9. Sourcing is ramped up to secure the supply line in support of the storm-impacted areas while maintaining normal supply elsewhere.
10. Key contact information consisting of names and phone numbers of Hubbell personnel at the central distribution center and in the field is updated on an ongoing basis and forwarded to distributors.
